

Microsoft Teams support for Teams or Skype - Karishma ===== Karishma This is just to show support for Teams at Microsoft and not necessarily a commitment to the platform. ----- Karishma The functionality/feature is not clear if it's for Teams or Skype. Anyone knows? The present invention relates to solid-state power sources, and more particularly to a solid-state power source which has a decreased peak power loss and the ability to withstand high voltage transients without damage. Prior art power sources, including solid state power sources, often have very large peak power losses and produce transients which can cause damage or destruction of the devices receiving the power. These transients typically cause the operation of the devices to be non-linear and are therefore undesirable. In addition, prior art power sources have been so designed that as the voltage of the power source drops to a point near or below a threshold, the power source is disabled, limiting the range of voltage that can be applied to the load. Many prior art solid-state power sources use a silicon diode as the switching element. Silicon diodes have a peak reverse voltage of approximately 1.4 volts. This means that in order to withstand a peak reverse voltage of, for example, approximately 35 volts, a solid-state power source must be constructed of a number of diodes connected in series and must have a series resistance of approximately 35 volts per diode. This type of construction limits the ability of the solid-state power source to withstand high voltage transients. In addition, the method of the present invention can be used to construct a solid-state power source which has decreased peak power loss and the ability to withstand high voltage transients without damage.
